Where is the innovation in the stop loss market?

There have been very few innovative moves in the stop loss marketplace in the past 20 years. Historically, innovation may have begun with individual lasers, aggregating specific and variations in terms. More recently many might consider no new lasers and renewal rate caps as innovative, but in reality they are just strategies to shift risk back to the employer. But every major stop loss provider loves to use the word “innovation” to gain traction in the industry.

For us, innovation isn't just a buzzword – we're delivering it with Clear Point.
